Christopher McNall

After undergraduate and graduate legal studies in Oxford and Poland, Christopher taught law at the Universities of Oxford and Cardiff. He came to the Bar in Manchester in 2005, since when he has undertaken a wide range of Chancery cases.

He aims to bring a robust and practical approach to all his clients' cases, and to make a worthwhile contribution to them. He understands the importance of careful and comprehensive pleadings, and many of his cases are resolved at that early stage.

Agriculture

Christopher is regularly instructed in agricultural disputes of all kinds, both before the Courts, the Agricultural Lands Tribunal, and in arbitrations, including disputes about tenancies, partnerships, land, planning and environmental law.

He is also a Fellow of the Agricultural Law Association

Tax

He has advised and represented taxpayers and HMRC before the First-Tier Tribunal (Tax Chamber) and the Upper Tribunal (Tax and Chancery Chamber) and is a part-time Judge of the Tax Chamber dealing with many disputes in relation to all taxes, including income tax, corporation tax, inheritance tax and VAT, as well as excise duties and assessments.

Wills and Contentious Probate

Christopher advises and acts, both for beneficiaries and executors, in claims across the whole range of disputed wills (including disputes as to testamentary capacity and undue influence,) and claims (for both claimants and defendants) under the Inheritance (Provision for Family and Dependents) Act 1975.

Chancery

He advises and acts in the range of matters which belong to the Chancery Division of the High Court, and Chancery Business in the County Court, and especially disputes involving rights of way and boundaries, tenancies, mortgages, professional negligence (especially solicitors), fraud, and breach of fiduciary duties.

Mediation

Christopher is also an accredited mediator (Centre for Effective Dispute Resolution) and an associate member of the Association of Northern Mediators.
